Background

The graphic identity of Golden Hours is a modern re-imagining of diners, as well as taking visual inspiration from the ships, clothing, and graphic design of NASA. Our fast-food establishment has a fictional story about a space-traveling chicken, "Captain Cluck", who travels to discover new and innovative ways to make and deliver breakfast at any time of the day. The color pallet further echoes the messaging of breakfast at any time, with 2 color pallets representing, morning, day, and night.

This visual style of Golden Hours gives audiences a feeling of peacefulness, warmth, and wittiness that is inviting, and lovable. Our icon tells the audience that "there is breakfast here!", with the name implying that it's open for multiple hours, not just breakfast hours.

Concept Location Art

"Our mission is to provide a unique and warm-feeling breakfast to everyone, everywhere, at any time, delivering our customers a welcoming staff, attentive service, and great-tasting food at reasonable prices."

Logo

The icon is the core identifier of Golden Hours, supported by the typography to give audiences a name to associate with the icon.

The logo should be used within all promotional materials as a visual identifier of the fast food establishment.

Icon

The icon should be used as the main visual for profile pictures on social media and should be used when the typography of the logo reaches past the minimum scale.

Flat

The alternate logo and icon should be used on any marketing material that is flat or minimalistic.

The icon should be used as the home button for any apps, websites, or other various material.

This is a darker color pallet for the logo for when the logo is put over white or other bright colors that make the logo illegible.

Dark Flat

The alternate logo and icon should be used on any marketing material that is flat, minimalistic, and on white colored content.

The icon should be used as the home button for any apps, websites, or other various material colored white.

Slogan or Additional Text

The logo can have additional text added such as a slogan. They should only ever be put under the small space of the words Golden Hours, or to the right of the logo. The size of slogan must be smaller than the type on the logo.

Slogans or additional text should only ever be added in promotional material such as posters or video. Any additions or alterations to the placement of the text must be approved by the design consultant.

Spacing and Scale

The Golden Hours logo needs a minimum amount of space proportionate to the G of the logo. Only the slogan is allowed past the minimum space.

Scale

The maximum scale for web is 670px x 260px.

The minimum scale for web is 90px x 35px and 2.25 inches x 1.34 inches when printed

When going past the minimum scale, use the icon rather than the logo.

Integrity of the Mark

Only use supplied logo file.

Futura PT Cond is sans serif geometric typeface with multiple fonts or varying weight. Futura PT Cond is used to improve the hierarchy and texture in materials, with it being used in captions, running headers, footers, subheads, and sidebars.

Type in Use

Imagery

Imagery of the sky is a big motif when it comes to marketing material. Stock photography can be used.

Imagery Cont.

Images of food should feel homey, warm, and look appetizing. Make an effort to use original photography and art when possible, or contact us about our catalog of available images.

Business Materials

Website

Our website transitions throughout the day, in line with the time of the website's visitors. The website transition showcases our establishment's commitment to serving breakfast throughout the day, not just mornings.
